

Charles Szentesi

BDS, MA (Clinical Education)

Charles obtained his BDS degree in South Africa, and has extensive experience working in general practice. He has also been involved with undergraduate and postgraduate teaching at Kings College London since 2003.

Most of his teaching focuses on minimally invasive and restorative dentistry. He has been nominated on several occasions for Teacher of the Year by undergraduate dental students at Kings College London Dental Institute. More recently he has been involved with the development and teaching of a new MSc in Minimally Invasive Dentistry with Prof Banerjee, and has been examiner on distance learning MSc in Aesthetic and Restorative Dentistry at Manchester University.

In 2016 Charles completed his masters in clinical education at the Kings Learning Institute with a project relating to the input of students learning needs in educational development.

He is a director at Atlas Education and continues to practise dentistry in Kent.
